Our resurrection Sunday was phenomenal! Our church-wide prayer time led by the Pastor Search Committee was fantastic! God is moving as He prepares us for our next pastor and his family. Though we await the specific date and individual, each day brings us closer to his arrival. You and I must be ready for this family. In 1 Timothy 5:17, Paul shares that the pastor is worth double honor. How can we “honor” our next pastor and his family:

1. Honor with finances: The context is to honor him with (literally) a double honorarium. I believe this is a hyperbole, but the point is clear. God calls the pastor and his family who are dependent upon God’s people’s faithful giving.

2. Honor with your prayers: Double honor. If God calls us to care for our pastor financially, how much more spiritually? He and his family will need your prayers!

3. Honor by following his leadership: God calls him to lead, feed, and meet needs. Pray that God gives him a vision for EHBC. Then, pray that you will follow his leadership.

4. Honor by loving his family: Be patient with him. Be patient with his family. Ask God daily for an increasing love for your pastor and his family.

5. Honor by encouraging him to spend time with the family: Encourage him to take vacations. Encourage him to spend time with his family regularly.

6. Honor by helping the church grow:

- Commit to being active and involved
- Commit to being a regular contributor to the Lord’s work
- Commit to praying for the numerical and spiritual growth
- Commit to inviting others to get involved with you
- Commit to welcoming those God sends

7. Honor by helping him in the transition: Whatever is needed as he makes this transition to EHBC, I pray that we are all there to help in any way we can.

Again, we don’t know the person God has for us. God knows. However, we are responsible for preparing ourselves for this new pastor by honoring him with “double honor.” Let’s prepare to extend “double honor” to our new pastor and family, trusting in God’s guidance throughout this exciting journey.
